EDUCATION

2004-2005

Yale University School of Medicine

Department of Psychiatry

Fellowship in Forensic Psychiatry

During the fellowship year, I worked in a variety of settings where law and mental health intersect. I performed forensic evaluations of persons involved in both civil and criminal matters as part of the Law and Psychiatry program at Connecticut Mental Health Center. I treated and evaluated patients at Connecticut Valley Hospital and performed evaluations through the New Haven Office of Court Evaluations. I also consulted to the Federal Public Defender's office and participated in an immigration law clinic at Yale Law School. The fellowship also included didactic experiences covering landmark cases in mental health law, research in forensic psychiatry, and the treatment of persons in mandated treatment and the criminal justice system.

2001-2004

University of California, San Francisco

Langley Porter Psychiatric Institute

Residency in General Adult Psychiatry. Completed, June 2004.

Rotations included experiences in inpatient and outpatient psychiatry including time spent at San Francisco General Hospital, Langley Porter Psychiatric Institute (LPPI), and the San Francisco Veterans Administration Medical Center. Over the course of my training, I sought clinical experiences and supervision geared to developing my interests in forensic psychiatry, acute services, and cultural psychiatry. During my fourth year, I spent one month with the Psychiatry and the Law program at LPPI and pursued electives in substance abuse, behavioral neurology, and couples therapy. My primary responsibility was as the Senior Resident on the Langley Porter Adult Inpatient Service. In this capacity, I was a junior attending for inpatients and treated patients with electroconvulsive therapy. In conjunction with my work on the inpatient service, I undertook a research project on civil commitment. I also supervised residents and medical students through daily rounds, clinical work, a weekly seminar, and informal supervision.
